JSCMT Crossmark Policy

Applying the Crossmark logo is a commitment by Journal of Sustainable Construction Materials and Technologies (JSCMT) to maintain the content published and alert readers to changes if and when they occur.

What is Crossmark?

Crossmark, a multi-publisher initiative from CrossRef, provides a standard way for readers to locate the authoritative version of a document. JSCMT recognizes the importance of the integrity and completeness of the scholarly record to researchers and librarians and attaches the highest importance to maintaining trust in the authority of its electronic archive. Clicking on the Crossmark logo will inform the reader of the current status of a document and may also provide additional publication record information about the document.

For more information on CrossMark, please visit the CrossMark site.

The JSCMT content that will have the CrossMark icon is restricted to current and future journal content and is limited to specific publication types.

For general author guidelines and information, please see: Publishing with JSCMT for authors guidelines.

JSCMT content

The JSCMT content that will have the Crossmark logo is restricted to current and future journal content and limited to specific publication types (see below) and only on content hosted by official JSCMT website. Articles in Press will not have the Crossmark logo for the present.

Publication Types

Article Type

Addendum: Publication item giving additional information regarding another publication item, mostly presenting additional results.

Case report: Used in medical literature: A detailed report of the symptoms, signs, diagnosis, treatment, and follow-up of an individual patient.

Correspondence: Letter to the editor or a reply to the letter.

Discussion: Argumentative communication, like papers in a discussion, but also perspectives, commentaries, etc.

Duplicate: Accidental duplication of an article in another journal. The text of the article is retracted. The HTML pages are replaced by a single page with citation details and an explanation. The PDF pages remain with a watermark on every page to notify it is a duplicate.

Erratum:	Article in which errors are reported that were made in an earlier publication in the same journal. Can be Erratum (publishing error) but also Corrigendum (author error).
Full Length Article:	Complete report on original research.
Practice Guidelines:	Text described recommended best practice in medical articles.
Removal:	The text of the article is removed. The HTML pages and PDF pages of the article are completely removed and replaced by a single page with citation details and an explanation.
Retraction:	The text of the article is retracted. The HTML pages are replaced by a single page with citation details and an explanation. The PDF pages remain with a watermark on every page to notify it is retracted.
Review article:	Substantial overview of original research, usually with a comprehensive bibliography, generally also containing a table of contents.
Short Communication:	Short report or announcement of research, usually claiming certain results, usually with a shorter publication time than other papers in the same publication. Appear under many names, such as Letter Papers, Preliminary notes, Notes, etc.

Correction and Retraction Policies

JSCMT is committed to uphold the integrity of the literature and publishes Errata, Expressions of Concerns or Retraction Notices dependent on the situation and in accordance with the COPE Retraction Guidelines. In all cases, these notices are linked to the original article.

More information on JSCMT's guidelines can be found here: Publishing Ethics for journals

Information on COPE Retraction Guidelines can be found here: Retraction Guidelines